

ACTION PLAN

Developing a Product Hypothesis and User Personas

Instructions

This action plan provides an opportunity to consider how to apply your understanding of developing a product hypothesis and user personas to better serve your customer, your team, and your organization. You can use this action plan to set personal and organizational goals.

Complete the grid below.

Key Objective

In this section, identify one or more problems that matter to your customer. What problem, mission, or opportunity would you like to resolve, undertake, or pursue? Think of an opportunity to make a step change improvement, something your company/team is well-positioned to solve. How would you target personas?

Strategies

What strategies can you use to develop the skills presented in the course that will help you accomplish your identified objectives?

Steps

What specific steps will you take to put these strategies into action? List each step and identify who else should be included to help with implementation. Note anyone who might need to approve these steps. Be as specific as you can.

Timeline

Identify what you want to accomplish by the end of this month, by the end of the quarter, and by the end of the year.

Measurement/Results

How are you going to measure your results or demonstrate that your efforts have had a positive impact? Outline your measurement strategies here.
